A number of the most respectable physicians, to whom we have communicated a knowledge of the constituents of these medicines, have been pleased to favor us with their opinions [some of them in writing] that they are the best remedies they have ever been acquainted with for the cure of the diseases for which they are recommended.

OPINION OF DR. SAM. B. MARTIN,
One of the most experionced of the faculty in this city, and long celebrated for his successful practice.
Gentlemen—I have carefully examined the component parts of your DIARRHŒA CORDIAL, as well as your Anolyne Cherry Expectorant, and find them both valuable compounds; the doses are safe and consistent with medical practice, and I do not hesitate to recommend them.

STABLER'S DIARRHOEA CORDIAL! STABLER'S DIARRHEA CORDIAL!

Is a pleasant mixture, compounded in agreement with the rules of Pharmacy, of therapeutic agents, long known and celebrated for their peculiar efficacy in curing DIARRHEA, and similar affections of the system. In its actions it ALLAYS NAUSEA and produces a healthy action of the LIVER, thus removing the cause at the same time that it cures the disease. Opinion of Dr. John Addison, physician to the Baltimore South-

Opinion of Dr. John Addison, physician to the Baltimore Southern Dispensary.

Having made trial of your "DIARRHŒA CORDIAL," and being also acquainted with the ingredients of which it is composed, it gives me much pleasure in adding my testimony to that of others in favor of its extraordinary efficacy in the cure of "DIARRHŒA and SUMMER COMPLAINT in children and adults." With much respect, &c., JOHN ADDISON, M. D.

The subscribers, Apothecaries and Pharmaceutists in the city of Baltimore, are satisfied that the preparations known as Stabler's Anodyne Cherry Expectorant and Stabler's Diarrhœa Cordial, are medicines of great value, and very efficient for the relief and cure of the diseases for which they are recommended: they bear the evidence of skill and care in their preparation and style of putting up, and we take pleasure in recommending them to our customers.

MEXICAN MUSTANG LIMIMENT. MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

THE properties of this Liniment have never been equalled for the cure of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Burns, Bruises, Swellings, Stiff Joints, Piles, Broken or Caked Breast, Sore Nipples, Old Sores, or Pains in any part of the body an external application can reach. We have hundreds of certificates from those that have been cured of these diseases, and also that have had liorses cured of Ringbone, Spavin, Fistulo, Wind-galls, Pollevel, Rounder, and any enlargement of bone or muscle. Founder, and any enlargement of bone or muscle.

Dr. A. G. Bragg—Sir: My little child, when one month old, was aftacked with Scald Head, and for two years I have employed the best medical aid in the city without any benefit. One month since its head was a solid cake or sore. I purchased one 25 cent bottle of your Mustang Liniment to cure a sore I had on my nose and upper lip, which had been so for six months—it cured it immediately. I used the remainder of the bottle on the child's head, and it is nearly cured—one bottle more will, without doubt, perfectly cure it.

28 Vine st., St. Louis, June 28th, 1852. 28 Vine st., St. Louis, June 28th, 1852.

This is to certify that I have used the Mexican Mustang I iniment recently in a very severe case of Sprain—the right hip was so badly sprained and bruised that fears were entertained it was out of joint. I obtained a bottle of the Uniment and used it feely four days, when the soreness and pain were all gone and the hip joint was well. I have also used the Liniment for the Piles. Its effects were wonderful. Free application night and morning for a week has perfectly cured me.

64 Duane street, New York, June 25th, 1852.

I have used the Mexican Mustang Liniment for some time in my stable, upon my horses, in cases of Sprains, Bruises. Galls, Strains and Sores of different kinds, incident to a large number of horses. I used it upon a horse which had been suddle-galled for nearly a year. I had tried many remedies, and one in particular that I had been in the habit of using for years, and had generally proved the Mustang Liniment, which cured it in a very short time I consider it an invaluable remedy, and would not be without it.

WM. H. HOLMES.

Messrs A. G. Baage & Co.—I was induced to fry the Mustang days after applying it the swelling went down, and in ten days after applying it the swelling went down, and the horse is now free from lameness, and apparently as well as ever. I would advise all who have horses troubled with Ring-bone, Spavins, Fistula, Windgalls, or lameness of any kind, to go at once and procure a bottle of this Liniment.

What have been the changes and fluctuations in the observance of the day for the last half century, tion. our venerable neighbor of the Herald can tell us .-He is a historical character, and as old as the cen tury, (vide Wheeler.) and though, with his accustomed modesty, he declines the honor, still it is even Bo. Yea, verily .- Daily Journal, 14th inst.

The U. S. Navy and the Ericsson Engine.

It would seem as though, in some cases, at least the United States were destined to reap as many benefits from the imbecility of stupid old Fogies, as and progressive. While the country, in general, has Navy is assigned to Mr. Dobbin: been clamourous for the increase of the steam navy and the adoption of the more modern improvements in the vessels which have been constructed, the wise heads in practical control of the navy-we mean, of course, the "rum old Commodores," who have had the charge of beaureaus, have either gone on in the beaten track of their boyhood (how long past that is, Heaven only knows,) or where they have crawled out upon the broad arena of experiment, it has only eral. been to ruin everything they touched, until, at length, as the result of many years of trial and tribulation, the country can boast of one good war tions as are very emphatically disgraceful. Now, while such has been and is the state of things in the Navv. our commercial steam marine has sprung into existence, and, at once, taken its place in ocean navigation, beside that of the oldest and most experienced nations. How far the National steam vessels are behind those belonging to private individuals or companies, it would be almost impossible to say. Any distance might fairly be assumed, and ter Railroad arrived here on Saturday last, to Wm. then the whole not be told.

But there is one great comfort left. Should the present steamships be rendered obsolete by the general adoption of the new Caloric invention, the Uni- 11th inst., postponed, indefinitely, the confirmation ted States Government, at least, will loose nothing of Mr. Badger to the Supreme Court Bench, by a by the operation. Caloric or no Caloric, all the few vote of 26 years to 25 nays. steamships it has, and luckily it has few, are already obsolete as they can well be, from the newest even unto the oldest. So that, in fact, there is a capital chance and an open field for the adoption of any new system. We may be calorified all over, if we want it, and sacrifice nothing by the operation.

The creation of something like a retired list for superanuated officers of the Navy, would unquestionably be a desideratum. As matters now stand, by the time an officer attains the rank of post captain, he is pretty generally half fossil, at least, and soon becomes wholly so,-never resigning-and seldom, if ever, dying; there is no younger blood, or more progressive ideas infused into the higher ranks of the profession; and, indeed, it is usual to find those whose practical, as well as theoretic talents and services reflect honor upon the service and upon the country, occupying a comparatively subordinate pounds. position-as, for instance, Lieut. Maury. who is hardly even yet a first Lieutenant, although long known throughout the civilized world, and arrived at least at middle life, if he has not already passed it. Many other instances of a similar character might be given. but as these could have nothing to do with the caloric engine, we spare the reader's patience.

There is every chance in the world for the United States to go in strong upon the caloric system, and certainly no inducement for the construction of such miserable steamships as have heretofore been turned out of the Government ship yards.

RUMOUR.-The Salisbury Watchman, (Whig,) of the 10th, mentions a rumour, as prevalent there, to the effect that Col. J. H. Wheeler had received the which will occur on the expiration of Mr. Mangum's term. The Watchman does not place much confitermined to make an appointment at all, or not, we cannot say; we presume it is very doubtful, but it actually happened, on the 4th of March next.

THE INTERIOR OF THE STATE. - In our exchanges from this State we find little stirring-no bloody murders or other quotable matters, and but little original of any kind ;- big hogs and plank roads are the order of the day, and these, if not extraordinary, are at least peaceful, prosperous, and comfortable. In the Mecklenburg District there are movements beginning to be made looking to the Congressional election in August next. It will grow warmer after a while, and there will be fun about.

ft would seem that the quidnuncs about Washington City will have a very short time in which to proceed to his post in a day or two. bore the President elect, or try to pump out his policy or appointments before the inauguration. STOCK ALL TAKEN !- We have the satisfaction state, that FIVE HUNDRED 'HOUSAND DOLLARS, the entire capital stock of the Western Railroad, from Favetteville to the Coal Fields, has been subscribed. The subscription in this town had reached $93,400, and would probably have been made this morning $100,000, so as to secure the charter and call a General Meeting of the Stockholders for the purpose of organizing, when, last evening, a gentleman from Wall street, New York, (understood to be one of a company interested in Coal and Copper lands,) arrived here and subscribed $406,600, making the entire amount of eapital at present authorized by the charter. And the amount cannot be increased until the stockholders, by a formal resolution to that effect, authorize an increase to $1.000.000.

The charter requires that the books shall be kent open 60 days; but, the stock being all taken, we learn that it is not competent for the Commissioners to receive any further subscriptions for the present.

that the control of the work will thus pass out of the hands of our own citizens and into the hands of Northern capitalists. But ours is no "dog in the manger" policy. What our own people hesitated to do, or would not do for want of confidence in their of doing great things promptly and fearlessly, is thus to be done for us. We have every confidence that it will be well done, and that it will result in vast improvement to our State and town.

Fayetteville Observer, 10th inst. The Rallroad Subscription.

The unprecedented circumstance, in this part of the world, of such a subscription as that made to the Western Railroad by a New York firm, led to a doubt in the minds of some whether the subscription was a bona fide one, and this doubt was somewhat strengthened by other circumstances unnecessary to be mentioned. But we believe every one is now entisfied that it is a real subscription. We are inclined to think that parties in North Carolina are interested with others in New York in the subsc iption.

In view of all the facts, the Board of Commission ers have felt themselves called on to keep open the books of subscription at this and other places adverbona fide one, the whole amount of capital stock is taken, and the Commissioners, knowing that fact, are not at liberty to receive more; for the charter limits them to that amount, and provides no mode of scaling a subscription exceeding it. But, should any creased to a million, as the stockholders will have nower to do, then it is expected that those who subscribe now will be allowed a preference. On these conditions further subscriptions will be received.

More Galphinism. Another fraud has been detected, which goes further to exemplify the imbecility and corruption of the whig dynasty than any which has preceded it Every one who has noticed, even with a careless eye the manner in which the extention of the Capitol has been carried on, must have been struck with the prayers as myself for the welfare of France. Good mismanagement and want of energy it exhibited .--But carelessness and sloth, added to the vague rumors of corrupt extravagance which were affont. have not prepared the public mind for the systematie and extensive frauds that have been committed I have preferred a woman whom I love and reon the appropriations for the enlargement.

Towards the end of last month the Senate appoin ed a committee of investigation, directed to examine into the charges of fraudulent practices in the erection of the new wings of the Capito'. General Houston was placed at the head of that committee and the evidence which has been taken before it of the most startling character. It shows innumer able instances of fraud, partaking of every possible character, by which nearly one-half of the six hundred thousand dollars appropriated by Congress has been misapplied and embezzled. According to the evidences, interior materials have been used and their use concealed : defects in the work have been covered over; government property misapplie 1; implements and laborers used for private purposes; an extensive system of embezzlement acted out, by work never rendered; and laborers have been employed at extravagant wages, under the agreement that they should give up a large portion of those wages after they were drawn from the pay agent. This system has been carried to such an extent, we are informed, as to swindle the government out of gives the assurance of reserved strength, and a hed about three hundred thousand dollars -- one-half of the entire appropriation. If this be true, there has been no parallel to this fraud in the history of the government : for it is formed of a larger number of tems, extending over a longer period of time, and convicts a larger number of individuals of carelessness and corrupt practices, than any which has preceded it. We hope to be able in a few days to lay the evidence which has been adduced before the Committee of Investigation before our readers. We are unwilling to begin its publication until we can continue it regularly. Surely no civilized country has been outraged by such an administration as that which has, since the 4th of March, 1849, alternately mortified the pride of the nation and outraged the public morality by an alternation of imbecility and frand, unrelieved by a single instance of manly effi-

PRESENTS TO GEN. PIERCE. - The Boston friends of Gen. Pierce, not content with presenting him with a lendid carriage and a fine pair of horses, have, it said, ordered a beautiful inauguration suit for n, which was finished on Thursday. It consists six garments, as follows :

1. A fine black dress coat, made from the same oth which took the premium at the last World's Fair in London. Coat superbly lined with satin dehene, sleeve linings also of satin.

2. Undress waistcoat of plain black silk: back of tin dechene, and lined throughout with white 3 Full dress vest of plain white silk; back and ings of white satin. On the satin lining of the oht side are thirty-one stars, representing the states of the Union, forming a circle, wrought in diver. Within this circle of stars is the Anchor of lope, worked in gold. Outside of all is an endless Translation of these emblems: "In the nion of the States is our only hope. God watches ver the republic -eternal be its duration!" On the posite white satin lining is wrought a chaplet of leaves, tied at the bottom with a golden knot, side of which is another circle of gold. 4. Pants of plain black doeskin, of the finest maerial that can be produced.

. Undress pants of a plain black, very fine, silk and wool mixture. Overcoat of plain black, superbly lined, and

Judge Charlton, in a recent eloquent address before e Young Men's Library Association, at Augusta, eorgia, thus sketches the marriage scene: have drawn for you many pictures of death; let esketch for you a brief, but bright scene of beauti- the Parisian taste: life. It is the marriage altar. A lovely female, othed in all the freshness of youth and surpassing st plighted her faith; to whom she has just given herself forever. Look in her eyes, ye gloomy philphers, and tell me if you dare, that there is no hapess on earth

See the trusting, the heroc devotion which impels to leave country and parents for a comparative ormy sea; she has handed over her happiness doom for this world, to another's keeping; but she as done it fearlessly, for love whispers to her that er chosen guardian and protector bears a manly and noble heart. Oh, woe to him that forgets his oath his manhood?

Her dark wing shall the raven flap. O'er the false hearted, His warm blood the wolf shall lap,

Ere life be parted. Shame and dishonor sit,

On his grave ever; Blessing hall hallow i Never! Oh, never! hall hallow it.

levoted love. Can you give that back to me?" said the man, as he flung himself at her feet. I cannot restore that; but I will do more-- I of the night. keep it unsullied and unstained-1 will cherish wough my life, and in my death; and never again I forget that I have sworn to protect and cherish who gave up to me all she held most dear."

all not tell you there was poetry in a woman's -a woman's word? See it here! The mild, the the reproof of love winning back from its harshness rudeness the stern and unvielding temper of an anman. Ah ! if creation's fairer sex only knew their ngest weapons, how many of wedlock's fiercest les would be unfought; how much of unhappiness coldness would be avoided!

the door. He waited long for an answer to his last question, but none came. The spirit had gone; and, after thinking on the extraordinary visit, he turned over and fell asleep.

On getting up in the morning he found that the spirit of his mother had carried off his watch and purse, his pants down into the hall, and his greatcoat off altogether .- Detroit Advertiser.

BLOODY FIGHT. - The Natchez Free Trader of the 20th ultimo, says: At an early hour on yesterday morning, a bloody fight occured under the hill, between a horse trader, whose name we did not learn, and William Ailes, a drayman, which resulted in the severe wounding of the latter. The circumstances, as accurately as we could obtain them, on inquiry from various persons, were substantially these. A horse which was found astray at night, was turned into a livery stable by the horse trader. It seems that the horse belonged to Ailes, and that on finding where he was, he commenced flogging a negro in the livery stables. The horse trader interposed to explain, and Ailes answered him by opprobious epithets and by throwing a brickbat at him, the latter sending a simi lar missile in return Ailes then went off and returned, armed with a heavy hickory stick, with which he advanced on the trader, who drew a pistol, warning Ailes not to strike him Ailes continued to advance and inflicted several violen blows on him, when the trader fired three shots, one of which took effect in Ailes' breast, passing round and lodging under his shoulder blade, whence it was extracted. At a late hour last evening Ailes was still living. His wound was thought to be dangerous but believed not to be mortal.

The horse trader, very strangely, has neither given himself up, nor has he been arrested, though we learn he came up in town during the day to consult coun-

SAILORS FLOGGING THEMSELVES .-- The following is published in a late letter from Norfolk,

"The United States frigate Raritan is here, of which you are aware. I have learned from one of her officers, that since the abolition of flogging in the navy, the men who were compelled to do more than their own, in consequence of a large portion of the men being confined as punishmen for neglect of duty, and various other offences, took it into their heads that something must be done to prevent the continuance of such a state of things. They therefore formed themselves into vigilance committees, and took upon themselves the puninshment of all offenders, by tucking them up and giving them half a dozen or a dozen with the cat, as the case required, the officer of the deck being always particularly oblivious just about the time the operation was performed."

DIED.

In this town on the 16th inst , GROBER HENRY, youngestchild of H. B. and Elizabeth Ann Sholar, aged 4 months. At his family residence, in Onslow county, on Thursday morning the 10th inst., at 6 o'clock, A. M., WILLIAM Ex-METT. Esq., aged 64 years and 8 days. It is ever both mel-ancholy and pleasing to record the exit of the loved and virtuous. We feel sad on reflecting that we are deprived of their society—that we shall see them and speak to them no their society—that we shall see them and speak to them no more on earth; but we are pleased to contemplate the good name they have left behind them, a name which "is better than great riches." Although Mr Ennett was not a man of great religious pretensions, yet he was one whose unassuming goodness and quiet disposition, gave him a place in the affections of all who knew him: In early life, he entered the tented field in defence of his country; he has represented his native County in the Legislature of North Carolina; he has been an acting and active Magistrate for many lina; he has been an acting, and active Magistrate for many years in Onslow; all of which duties he performed without reproach. He has left a disconsolute widow, with a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. "Mark eirele of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that Fear not the silent tomb! Silent it is, yet penceful and serene; No loneliness is there when God is seen! And, dear ones, there is room.

For Him who loved us, even in the grave:
Distrust Him not—He hath the will to save." Departed this life, in Sampson county, N. C., on the mer-ing of the 17th ult, LEMUEL CHESTNUT, Esq., aged 74 years, leaving a sorrowing widow and six children to lament their loss. The writer hopes to be excused for adding a few words to this melanchely announcement. It is a sacred privilege to stand, as it were, beside the grave of the departed Christian It is profitable as well as purifying to look upon and realize the office of death—to note the virtues which have survived his destroying hand, and still live green in the remembrance of his friends; and above all, it is cheering and consolatory o know that, to him death had lost its sting, and the grave een deprived of its victory.

Kind and generous in every relation of life—strictly honest, and junctual to every obligation—an affectionate hus-band—an indulgent parent, and a lenient master, he left no enemy upon earth. Those who knew him longest and most enemy upon earth. Those who knew him longest and most intimately, will most deeply regret his loss—by those of his own family it can never be forgotten. May the guardianship of the widow's God be around and about her whom his death has left in solitary beceavement. For thirty years duing which the writer has been acquainted with Mr. Chestnut, he has never heard him use a profane word or expression. To him death was a great gain. He pussed from the troubles and sorrows of life—from the pains of sickness and of agony, into the enjoyments of another and a better world. Peace to his ashes, and comfort to the wounded spirits of hose who bewail his loss.

BALTIMORE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.-We are pleased to learn by a letter to a gentleman in this town, from the Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Baltimore, that that body has after having had the matter under due consideration. forwarded a request to their Representatives in Congress to co-operate with the Committees from Wilmington, and the Representatives from North Carolina, in their efforts to obtain a suitable appropriation for the removal of obstructions at the mouth of the Cape Fear River. We feel confident that Mr. Walsh. the talented Representative from the City of Baltimore, who is a member of the Committee upon Commerce, will lend his valuable aid in this matter.

On Wednesday the ceremonial of counting out the electoral votes, and announcing the successful candilates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States, took place, in pursuance of law, in the Hall of the House of Representatives.

The whole number of electoral votes cast for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States for the term of four years from the fourth of March next, appeared to be 296.

Of this number, Franklin Pierce and William R. King had received for the offices of President and Vice President, respectively, 254 votes.

That for the same offices, Winfield Scott and William A. Graham had received, respectively, 42 votes. Franklin Pierce and William R. King were therefore duly elected President and Vice President of the U. States for four years from and after the 4th

We learn with some amusement that this roman tic event in the annals of the French Empire has called forth the strongest opposition, and provoked the utmost irritation among these who have hitherto been the warmest adherents of the Bonapartist cause. Louis Napoleon heard what they had to say, refused to accept their resignations, and confirmed his decision by ordering M. Fould to make the formal demand of the young lady's hand. We are not, as we have said, disposed to take an unfavorable view of this decision; but it is impossible not to see that a State in which such events are possible is governed by coups de tete, and that any other sudden caprice of desire, resentment or ambition, would be gratified with the same disregard to all acts thus is not only absolutely without control, but he takes a certain pride in demonstrating that neither the advice of his Ministers nor the motives by which men are commonly affected have any power at reach of foresight and of argument. The marriage of the Emperor increases the probability that those hereditary and dynastic claims will be persisted in which have not been acknowledged by the rest of Europe. A state of things in which the reigning head of a powerful and irritable nation is not likely to obtain from foreign Powers all the deference and respect they are accustomed to pay each other is not one of great security. For it must be remembered that, as the continental States have fallen under the voke of absolute Governments, their policy is more likely to be affec ed by the personal considerations by which Governments of that form are most affected. " Well. I have been say that the Irish servant

I remember, when I was about your age, I went away up into the Coos county to see my cousin Hannah. She married a man by the name of Price—had been married eight or nine years. I didn't calc'late to stay more than a week, 'cause, you know, l lidn't want to wear my welcome out; but it was in the fall of the year, and Hannah was making up the winter clothes for Mr. Price and the children, so she laid siege to me, and finally persuaded me to stay a spell longer, to help her along with 'em. You see. I was a purty cute hand in them days at cuttin' and clothes for one of the boys out of a desp'rate little piece of cloth to what Hannah could. Well, arter I'd made up my mind to stay, Mr. Price took it into his head to build a great long string of stone wall—the matter of fifty or sixty rods. That made the

" 'What shall we do?' says Hannah, lookin' as sacred as could be. 'There isn't but jest one kind o' pie in the house, and that is apple-pie. I thought there was a pumpkin-pie; but, come to look, there isn't hut jest two pieces. I guess Mr. Price eat the rest for luncheon.

" 'What if there isn't ?' says I. 'Good toast, and doughnuts, and apple-sass, and a piece of apple-pie to top off with, is good enough.' " 'But,' says Hannah, 'I'm determined to get the right side of Judy in the outset, and then it 'll be ea-

"Well, things went on purty much the same for a number of days. Judy seemed to have an idea that she was the same as company. She was jest as pleasant as wine, for Hannah never made a word of complaint, 'cause, you see, she thought if she could on'y once get the right side of her, there would be no trouble in keepin' there. "At last, Hannah had so much to do that she got all tired out, and Mr. Price, who seen how things were goin' on, spoke right out plain to Judy, and told her that when there was so much to do she musn't be afreard of hurtin' her clothes, nor her hands, and that he didn't see any need, when anybody called, of her dartin' out of the room jest like a pick'rel, if she didn't happen to have on her flowers and her furbeows, and leave everything for his wife to do.

The Annual English Panic.

About once a year, John Bull pretends to be terribly larmed about an invasion of his island by Louis Napoleon. If this monarch orders a new war-steamer or frigate, or if he visits a navy yard, or if he makes any nodification of the army, at once there is an outcry from John o'Groats, to Land's End." Plans for fortifying the coast are proposed; militia organizations and drillings commence; troops are called home from the colonies; navy yards are lively with workmen; the capacity of railroads for transporting armies with rapidity is calculated, and the whole is and shakes with apprehension and, at the same time, bristles with bayonets. One of these periodical paroxysms has just attacked England, and it will probably last for several weeks. The provocation, in this case, is even slighter than usual; merely an order from the Emperor to an English naval constructor, to build some frigates for France. It is not likely that if Napoleon III. meditated a descent upon England, he would go about the preparations in such a bare-faced way, and get his machinery from England herself. The whole thing seems utterly out of the question, at the present time.

But there may be circumstances that will induce the new Emperor to avail himself of the first opportunity of making a war upon the ancient enemy of France This very exhition of the British apprehension is a strong temptation to an ambitious man. The weak points of the kingdom are so glaringly displayed, and the contrast of the forces that each power may bring into service, is so decidedly in favor of France, that it More.
